Executive Summary

You spent ₹1,689 in February 2026, which is 43.7% of your monthly budget of ₹3,000, resulting in you being ₹1,311 under budget. The most notable fact is that your top spending category was Health & Fitness, with a single transaction of ₹500. You should be aware that your daily average spend was ₹60, indicating a relatively consistent spending pattern throughout the month.

Spending Highlights

Your top spending categories were Health & Fitness at ₹500 (29.6% of total), Personal Care at ₹350 (20.7% of total), and Food & Drink at ₹270 (16.0% of total). Your weekly spending showed a rising trend, with ₹469 in Week 1, ₹460 in Week 2, and ₹760 in Week 3, indicating an increase in spending over the month.

Budget Insights

You utilised 43.7% of your monthly budget, leaving a significant amount unspent. Your Grocery and Shopping buckets were underutilised, with only ₹100 spent out of ₹800 allocated for Grocery and no spending in Shopping. You should consider adjusting your budget allocations to better reflect your spending habits.

Category Analysis

- You spent ₹500 on Health & Fitness (29.6% of your total) across 1 transaction at an average of ₹500 per transaction.
- You spent ₹350 on Personal Care (20.7% of your total) across 1 transaction at an average of ₹350 per transaction.
- You spent ₹270 on Food & Drink (16.0% of your total) across 3 transactions at an average of ₹90 per transaction.

- You spent ₹200 on Travel (11.8% of your total) across 2 transactions at an average of ₹100 per transaction.

Recommendations

1. Review your Health & Fitness spending to ensure that the ₹500 transaction was a one-time expense and adjust your budget accordingly.
2. Consider allocating a smaller amount to your Grocery bucket, as you only spent ₹100 out of ₹800 allocated.
3. Increase your budget for Food & Drink and Travel categories, as these seem to be essential expenses for you.
4. Monitor your spending in the Entertainment category, as the ₹150 spent on a movie could be a one-time expense.

Next Month Watchouts

- If your Health & Fitness spend follows its current trend, budget at least ₹500 for next month.
- Be prepared to allocate more funds to your Food & Drink category, as your weekly spending showed an increasing trend.
- Keep an eye on your Travel expenses, as the ₹200 spent this month could increase if you continue to use public transport or take more trips.
